CHURCHES AND PREACHERS.

Rev. J. C. Carmichael's meeting at Sealfield Cane, Rockcastle county, resulted in eight additions to that church.

Rev. Pike and Massey's meeting at Buckeye closed Sunday with 29 additions. Rev. Pike preached at Gildead Sunday, where he had two additions.

The ladies of the Presbyterian church have issued invitations to a praise and prayer service to be held at their church at 2 p. m. on the 25th.

Rev. A. M. Lambert, of Crab Orchard, has just closed a very interesting meeting of 10 days at Rockhold, which resulted in 20 confessions and sanctifications.

Rev. W. M. Kuykendall has just closed a very successful meeting of three weeks with King's church, Garrard county. There were 24 additions—23 by baptism. Most of them were married folks. One old man and wife over 60 years old.

It is said that an English syndicate has secured a concession from the Sultan of Turkey to build a railroad through the Euphrates Valley to the Persian Gulf. If this be true, as seems possibly the case, we shall soon be able to go by rail to the site of the Garden of Eden, as it is located by the Bible.

At its session last week, the following was adopted: "The Synod of New York, recognizing with sorrow and alarm an increasing tendency toward a lowered regard for the sacredness of the marriage tie, hereby enjoins upon all its ministers absolutely to refuse to marry divorced persons, except it is the inherent party under a divorce granted for reasons fully recognized in the New Testament."

NEWS OF THE VICINAGE.

W. J. Sparks and Robert Cox will open a big dry goods store at Mt. Vernon.

Pulaski county has a lot of grey crows, says the Progressive民主 Journal.

Rev. R. B. Noel will preach at the Hustonville Baptist church next Sunday at 11 A. M.

A crate of rat traps in shipment caught 18 rats in one night in the depot at Mt. Vernon.

The State College football team and the Centre College team tied 11 to 11 at Danville Saturday.

A post office was established at Vose, Laurel county, and Allee Wyatt was appointed postmaster.

Mac Jennings, who shot Arch Merle at Hurkesville, had to be taken to Columbia to prevent lynching.

Fire destroyed the Masonic Hall at Perryville. For a time the whole business portion of the place was threatened.

Syllis Phillipson, son of Tom Phillipson, the Clay county lead leader, was killed by falling or being thrown from a train near Corbin.

Dora Clay Brock, the divorced wife of Gen. Cassius M. Clay, has borne her new husband a son, and the general wants it named after him.

A report from Clay county says that Sheriff Heverly P. White, Jr., the alleged leader of the White faction in the Hader lead, is at the point of death with typhoid fever.

The court of appeals reversed the judgment of the Boyle circuit court in the case of the L. & N. railroad against John Shoemaker's administrator. The action was brought by Shoemaker's widow to recover damages for the loss of his life while acting as brakeman in Nelson county in September, 1895. She secured judgment for $10,000. The reversal is on errors, and a new trial of the case ordered.

On the opening of the Clay circuit court it was discovered that the records of evidence in the cases against James and Sol Grinnell, charged with the murder of Wash Thacker, had been stolen from the office of County Judge Wright. The feminists began gathering in Manchester Sunday night and are still arriving. All are heavily armed and trouble is looked for.

The dead bodies of Huckner McKee and Mrs. John M. Wilson were found on a country road in Anderson county. The two had been criminally intimate for some time and had been indicted for fornication. It is supposed that in order to get out of a bad scrape the man killed the woman and then fled. He leaves a wife and child and she was a widow with three small children.

At London the jury in the case of Charles Marsey, charged with the murder of Richard Stapleton, failed to agree. The following were given terms: Dan Owens, murder, life sentence; William Riley, detaining female, two years; four years in each case; Holt, Soller, arson, two years; Craig, Gragg, malicious stabbing and wounding, one year. Not more than 1/2 of the criminal business on hand was disposed of, and the large civil docket, with its 700 or 800 suits, was not touched. Two terms of court have passed there without the civil docket having been called.

Twenty lives are reported to have been lost in the blizzard in Montana. A dispatch says the "Maryland gold democrats have declared in favor of the republican State and legislative tickets." To be held with such.

LANCASTER.

The warrants against Jack Shearer for the illegal sale of liquor were dismissed by Judge Huston.

Messrs. J. A. Royton and George Russell, of this county, have bought a heavy stable in Junction City from Thomas Clegg for $2,100. They take possession on Nov. 1.

Sebastian Stone, of Woodford county, and Miss Mollie Douglas, one of the handsomest and most excellent young ladies in the county, were married today at T. J. Hammonds'. They left at once for their home near Versailles.

Judge T. Z. Murray will speak here on Nov. 30th, but he will not destroy the impression made today by Hon. G. G. Gilbert, besides that, he had as well attempt to stop a cyclone as to try to change the convictions of the democrats of Garrard county, or to hold all the republicans in line.

Mr. Leeteher Owlesley will speak today at Winchester. Senator Harris is at home for a few days and he is pleased with the political outlook here and elsewhere. Ed. Holton Frank, son of the late Ed. J. C. Frank, will fill Ed. C. E. Powell's pulpit on the second Sunday in November.

Rev. J. C. Massee's meeting at Buckeye closed on Saturday. There were many converts and the church was greatly benefited. Rev. McKee will continue his meetings at the Presbyterian church through this week. Good crowds attend the night service and much good will be done.

Prof. Patterson has sold over 100 tickets for the lecture of Hon. Al. Taylor, on the night of Nov. 1st. This indicates that a large crowd will be present and those wanting tickets should procure them at R. E. McRoberts' drug store. Those who admire superior oratory, consisting of pathos and humor, should hear the great lecturer on "Life's Poetry and Pearls."

Judge Clifton J. Pratt, republican nominee for attorney general, spoke to about 125 here last Friday. Of course he opposed all democratic doctrine and favored republican so-called principles. He said that Goebel's name had been pronounced several different ways and that after the 7th of November, it would be "Go Hill." That means "Go Bill," and be inaugurated governor of Kentucky.

The grocery store of C. D. Powell was entered on Friday night by forcing a rear door open. Some shoes, clothing and jewelry were taken. On Saturday a pair of new shoes on a cold bed attracted attention and he said that he bought them from Anderson Sutton, a young colored man who once worked for Mr. Powell. The clothing was found on his premises with the numbers torn off. He was arrested and admitted that he got the goods. Mr. Powell went to the jail and found some of his jewelry on him. It is thought that he is the same party who entered J. M. Lagan's store about 10 days ago.

The democratic mass convention to nominate a candidate for the Legislature was well attended and old fashioned enthusiasm was on tap. In abundance, Leeteher Owlesley, secretary of the committee, called the convention to order. He was elected chairman, C. W. Anderson secretary and M. D. Hughes asst. secretary. G. H. Swinebroad in a few well chosen remarks full of enthusiasm, nominated Wilkinson Gay, Jr., of Buckeye, for representative; J. E. Robinson seconded the nomination in a ringing democratic speech. He urged loyalty to the ticket and predicted victory all along the line. There being no other nominations, the nomination of Mr. Gay was made unanimous. Mr. J. T. Hays in answer to repeated calls spoke for a few minutes and proved that he is in the cause body and soul. He showed that the republicans are opposed to legislating against trusts, and that alone should defeat them. Mr. Gay is a perfect gentleman, a good democrat and with a long, hard pull he can win the race, notwithstanding the county is republican by 150. Henry Clay said that Polk would defeat him because he (Polk) was not well-known and had made no enemies in public life. This proved true, and history will repeat itself in this case as Mr. Gay has not been engaged in public life. Mr. L. L. Walker renounced the democratic faith in 1896, and no quarters will be shown him by that party. It is late to nominate, but the leaders have planned the campaign and all will be well. It may be regarded as a gun shot affair but the result will be approved.

SPAIN'S GREATEST NEED.

Mr. R. P. Oliva, of Barcelona, Spain, spends his winter at Alton, S. C. Weak nerves had caused severe pains in the back of his head. On using Electrotherapy America's greatest healer, Dr. E. H. Remond, all pain was left him. He also takes grand medicine is what his country needs. All America knows that it cures liver and kidney trouble, purifies the blood, tones up the stomach and intestines, purifies the skin, puts the vigor and new life into the muscles, and cures all the ills of weak, tired and ailing you need it. Every bottle guaranteed, only 50 cents. Sold by Drury, Drugstore.

HUSTONVILLE.

Dr. Ed. Alcorn is enlarging and improving his already handsome home.

Cattle men for miles around will attend J. W. Allen's sale here Saturday. P. M. McRoberts and Mr. McCarty spoke here Thursday to a rather small crowd.

Two marriages are on the table—a young pair and a rather old pair. Guess who they are.

Rose & Held, successors to Dinwiddie Bros., have listed inviting and are receiving dead loads of new goods.

Mrs. J. W. Allen has been sick for several days. George D. Weatherford spent several days of last week in Louisville.

W. C. Greening stepped on a nail Saturday, which penetrated his foot nearly an inch, making a cripple of him for the present.

An average of 100 cars of hardwood lumber leave our suburb of Moreland monthly. There were 120 cars in September, Agent B. V. Shewmaker tells us.

The teachers' association Saturday was fairly well attended and the day was spent both pleasantly and profitably. Supt. Garland Singleton was on hand.

J. D. Dalton, of Moreland, will have his guessing contest Nov. 15, at 10 o'clock, when he will give away a splendid range. All guessers are invited to be present.

Mr. D. M. Lippis and his son have taken charge of the Hustonville Boiler Mills and are running it 12 hours a day. Both are splendid gentlemen and they will prove an acquisition to our town.

T. H. Smiley, of Lexington, sold to G. H. Shewmaker, of Washington county, his farm of 100 acres, located near Moreland, for $1,000. H. P. Shewmaker, C. S. agent at Moreland, made the deal.

On account of his wife's illness, Judge R. J. Breckinridge did not fill his appointment here Saturday night. He sent R. E. Parry, of his town, though, and he and Hon. M. F. North did the cause of democracy good.

John Hughes, of the Milledgeville vicinity, was shot in the face a few nights since by Joe Chandler at Hyden Williams'. Chandler claims that Hughes was disturbing his sleep. His face is badly peppered with bird shot, but the wounds are not serious.

Dr. J. C. Barker tells your correspondent that Coon Russell's wife presented him with a daughter some days since, which had two teeth. One of the teeth came out and Dr. Barker, who is preserving it, showed it to us. By the way Mr. Russell, who was shot some time since, is rapidly improving.

James Frye is back from Cincinnati, where he bought heavily and his new goods are arriving. Miss Jesse Cook was bidding her friends and relatives here farewell Saturday, preparatory to leaving for her new home at Nashville. Judge H. B. Canitz is ill. H. J. Newburn is book-keeper for the new milling firm.

MATRIMONIAL MATTERS.

Charles P. Gragg and Miss Deanne McGehee will be married at Somerset tomorrow.

Miss Mamie Westerfield, daughter of Frank Westerfield, of Parksville, and sister of L. M. Westerfield, of this place, was married a few days since to Joseph McGintee, of Junction City.

John H. Cheekett, of Richmond, late candidate for the democratic nomination for State auditor, and Miss Lida Burgess, a charming society woman of Mayville, are to marry in November.

Statistics show that six-tenths of the women who marry do so between the ages of 20 and 30, about 25 being the best time. After 30 the chances to marry rapidly decrease till it vanishes.

It is predicted that the next few months will witness a sweeping consolidation of railroad interests. A combination of the Harriman, Gould and Vanderbilt lines is said to be on the programme. The Norfolk and Southern railroad, extending from Norfolk, Va., to Edenton, N. C., has passed under the control of the Vanderbilt railroad syndicate.

Half rates to Indianapolis and return via the C. H. & D. Ry., on Oct. 23d and 24th, limited to the 29th for return, on account of the meeting of the Carrboro Builders' National Association. Call on your nearest C. H. & D. agent for full particulars.

THANKSGIVING HOLIDAYS, 1899. Greatly reduced rates via the C. H. & D. Ry. Tickets sold on Nov. 29th and 30th, limited to Dec. 1st for return. Ask your nearest C. H. & D. agent for full particulars regarding the time of trains and rates.

Two robbers shot and killed one man and wounded another while robbing a store at Doniphan, Kan. Later they ambushed and killed a policeman and wounded another man, members of a pursuing posse.

A dispatch says the "Maryland gold democrats have declared in favor of the republican State and legislative tickets." To be held with such.

BOBBITT ENTHUSIASTIC.

CRAD ORCHARD, Oct. 23—What an illustrious trio—Bryan, Goebel and Blackburn, the last mentioned by no means the least! What an immense throng! What enthusiasm! What good did for the glorious cause of democracy—a government by the people! That is the very derivation of the word, demos, the people, and eratos, power, two Greek words, and the word democracy literally means government by the people—power in the hands of the people.

Col. W. H. Sneed, republican from Frankfort, spoke here Friday night to a large audience. As he and I were acquainted, I introduced him by request, and he held the audience for about two hours with a few wise figures and dates than there are in Bay's 3d Part Arithmetic but that in the Mental Arithmetic. You can wear the people out with figures. My blind boy, 16 years old, as we went home from the speaking, said: "Well, I would not hear that again for $5." Philistines, give many facts and but few figures or you can not hold your audience. The next day the speaker spoke about how well we all looked and were dressed well and appeared to be doing well. I remarked that I had four more cents than any man in that audience and I only had four cents. The common class of people have less money and less in winter than I ever knew them to have. The hungry little mice are leaving my meal tub with tears in their eyes. May Providence and democracy have mercy upon Bobbitt.

It is predicted that the next few months will witness a sweeping consolidation of railroad interests. A combination of the Harriman, Gould and Vanderbilt lines is said to be on the programme. The Norfolk and Southern railroad, extending from Norfolk, Va., to Edenton, N. C., has passed under the control of the Vanderbilt railroad syndicate.

A dispatch to the New York World says the lines have been ordered to leave Johannesburg, and that this step is believed by some to mean that wholesale destruction of property is to be resorted to in the city. Johannesburg is chiefly owned by Englishmen. Detailed reports of the battles at Glenoe camp and Elandslaagte show that the loss of life on both sides was very heavy. Eleven British officers were killed and 23 wounded, 39 men were killed and 151 wounded.

A correspondent wants to know what the war between Great Britain and the Boers is about. Because the English government has asserted suzerainty or control over the Boer Republic, with the implied right to interfere in its internal affairs. This the Boers have deposed and are fighting against.

Miami, Fla., is infected with yellow fever. The health officer announces five cases and says there are doubtless several others. He recommends the depopulation of the town. Jackson, Miss., reports five new cases and Key West 15 cases and one death.

Mrs. Lillie Park, who weighed 400 pounds, is dead in Marshall county.

THE INTERIOR JOURNAL

STANFORD, Ky., - OCT. 24, 1899

W. P. WALTON.

SIX PAGES

ASKED at Hardinsburg by a friend, Prof. Roberts, of Hardinsburg College, who has now come out against him, who would be elected governor, John Young Brown said: "I will of course."

An incredulous look greeted the response when the boss boister added: "Oh! I was joking when I said that. Of course, I know I'll not be elected. It's my opinion that Goebel will win despite everything. If we keep up our fight, however, the Goebel and Blackburn crowd will not be able to control the next Legislature." Such duplicity not only weakened the professor's enthusiasm, but made him tell of the incident and now he and all his friends are lining up for Goebel. Nothing seems more certain than that Brown was put up by the L. & N. and that he accepted its nomination on the promise of the republicans to make him U. S. Senator in case they have the Legislature. But the old fool will find when all is lost for him, including honor, that the L. & N. will drop him like a cold potato and the republicans will give him the icy stare and the cold shake. Alas that vanity and an insatiate longing for office should have proven the ruin of a man who might have otherwise lived with some self respect as well as the respect of others.

GOV. BRADLEY spoke to 4,000 voters at the Louisville Auditorium Thursday evening, and made a flu speech from his standpoint. It was mainly in defense of his administration that the democratic platform had assailed and neither Taylor nor his ticket was mentioned till the peroration when he appealed for support for him and the entire lay-out. He jilted old man Brown by speaking of him as sturdy and brave and saying that his was the best democratic administration the State has ever had. There is a bond of union somehow, an umbilical cord as it were, that binds the two men, and it is claimed that Brown voted for Bradley over Hardin, whom he despises as much as Bradley hates Taylor. Gov. Bradley will make speeches at Owingsboro and Ashland, and while his support will be worth many votes to the republican ticket, it can not be overtaken and he will come under the string by 25,000 to 30,000 majority.

Two weeks from today, the voters of Kentucky will express themselves in thunder tones against corporations attempting to control elections and give those aggressive concerns a rebuke that will hereafter make them attend strictly and only to the business provided for in their charters. The railroads are mighty good things to have, when they perform their duties of hauling passengers and freight at a reasonable rate, but when they try to dictate to the people, who shall be their officers and openly avow a fight against the democratic nominees, it is time to call a halt and show them that the people and not the corporations intend to rule Kentucky. A cross under the ticket, which will appear on the ballot under the chicken cock, will very effectively put a quietus on the political aspirations of those corporations, which would rule or ruin, and show at the same time your contempt for their methods.

It must be galling on a man of Gov. Bradley's spirit to have to advocate the election of such a political monstrosity as Turney General Taylor, uncouth, illiterate and ill bred. It is the same Taylor, whom he said he would support for U. S. Senator, if he could pass the civil service examination. It takes a man of more good sense and good judgment to be a governor than a Senator, but it seems that Gov. Bradley has not required the examination before taking him for the former office. The only explanation of his course is probably that as between the devil and a democrat, he would take the devil if he was labelled republican.

THE republicans in Lexington and Fayette county put out a full ticket from State Senator to town councilmen and the Herald is hopping mad, because it says that the action destroys the hope of beating Goebel there. Poor old man Breckinridge! The democrats won't have him, the republicans don't want him and the devil must care for his own.

HAVING run out of other things to say about him, W. C. Pollard Breckinridge now accuses Senator Goebel, in the Lexington Herald, of not being pretty. With fire in his eye, thunder in his tones and contempt of Taylor auxiliaries shown in every movement and gesture, it is not to be wondered at that one of them thinks him unattractive.

In his six days' tour of Kentucky and Ohio, Mr. Bryan made 50 speeches besides many short talks. This bears his own record and stamps him as the most wonderful as well as the greatest man of his day.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL.

COL. T. B. DEMARIE will make a free talk to the temperance people of Stanford, Friday night, Oct. 27th, at the court house. All are invited.

THERE are two full grown town ticks in the field for councilmen as follows: First, G. L. Penny, B. P. Bent, Dr. E. J. Brown, Dr. W. B. O'Bannon, Ed Wilkinson and G. B. Weare Second, Dr. J. F. Peyton, A. H. Florence, M. D. Elmore, J. M. Stone, J. S. Hunley and Peter Straub, Jr. The last named are said to be run by the contractionists, who want to reduce the town boundary to keep from paying taxes.

BLACK—One of the best, if not the very best, speeches that has been delivered here this campaign was that of Hon. James D. Black, of Harrodsburg, at the court-house last night. The room was comfortably filled, nearly all parts of the county being represented, large delegations coming from McKinney, Hustonville, Turnersville and Moreland. Mr. Black began by showing how republicans had gotten into power by the false charges of rottenness at Frankfort and a demand to see the books. They had seen the books but to this good day they had found nothing wrong. They promised to reduce taxation and instead had raised it 10 cents on the $100 and had failed to pay the debt they claimed the increase for. Promising to increase the school per capita, they had the first year of power reduced it from $2.50 to $2.25, then made it $2.30 and now that it is election year and for campaign purposes they had raised it to $2.70. The Chinn School Book Bill, which the republicans oppose, was explained in the clearest manner and it was shown how greatly it would benefit the children of Kentucky. Under it spellers and first readers would be reduced from 17 to 10c and there would be a saving all along the line up to and exceeding 25c a book. The reduction may not eat a big figure in the blue-grass but in the mountains where the common school is the only chance for education, it amounted to a vast deal. The school book trust is fattening off the poor children of the State and it and all other trusts and combines should be downed. In advocacy of the election law, Mr. Black was especially strong. He showed how republican judges in the 11th district had ignored the law to divide the officers of election, how hundreds of men from Virginia and Tennessee came over and voted in every election, how he had proved by the sheriff of Claiborne county, Tenn., that he voted at Middlesboro, how D. G. Colson and his henchmen ran elections at the latter place and how frauds of every kind were used to republican advantage. The Goebel law will put a stop to such frauds and that is why the republicans are mad. Honest elections are what they do not want, but what they will get under the new law. The talk of bloodshed, however, is bosh and scares no one. Closing Mr. Black paid a high tribute to Senator Goebel and said that his supporters in the Louisville convention were far the most orderly and well behaved there. Of Hon. M. F. North, whom he had known for 20 years, he was particularly eulogistic. Born in the mountains where it is something to be a democrat he had always championed its principles and shown himself an honest and an upright man. He appealed to the bolters to come back to the fold and uniting with their friends again help to give the ticket from Goebel to North a majority that will convince the world of our earnestness. Although 24 hours long the speech was listened to with the closest attention and its best parts cheered to the echo. It was a vote maker and if it could be heard all over the State, few indeed would there be who would be mean enough to vote the republican ticket.

HON. R. C. Warren introduced Mr. Black in complimentary terms. Pal Rogers raised many a laugh by his responses to the speaker, who told many good and pointed anecdotes in addition to his telling arguments.

Senator Goebel spoke at Jackson yesterday to a good crowd. Three men were killed in a wreck on the Norfolk & Western in North Carolina.

Wesley James, of Charlotte, N. C., has just married his 9th wife. All the others are dead.

Mrs. J. C. Harlow, of Daviess county, took carbolic acid for castor oil, and died in great agony.

Epiphany David Sayre, president of the Kentucky Bankers' Association, died at Lexington after a short illness of acute stomach trouble. He was 79 years of age.

On Sept. 30th, the debt of the United States was: Interest-bearing debt, $1,016,018,500; debt on which interest has ceased, since maturity, $1,215,000; debt bearing no interest, $389,337,512; total, $1,430,661,392.

The forthcoming report of the Comptroller of the Currency will show that since the first day of January, 1899, up to the 31st, 58 National banks have been organized in the several States and territories with an aggregate capital of $8,820,000. One only was organized in Kentucky.

Banker McKnight, who is accused of wrecking the German National Bank, of Louisville, was granted a new trial. The original indictment against him contained over 100 counts. He was found guilty on about four counts and was sentenced to seven years' imprisonment at the Columbus, O., penitentiary by Judge Harr. Pending the action of the higher court on his appeal, he has been out on bond in the sum of $12,000.

LAND AND STOCK.

Over 50 peers have entered the 2:10 list this year.

W. A. Carson sold to H. H. Logan a pair of mules for $100.

Issue Hamilton sold two mule colts at Lancaster yesterday at $25.

Blackleg is killing cattle in the vicinity of Newby, Madison county.

Joshua Anderson bought of Newell, of Ulaski, a yoke of oxen for $90.

The cotton crop yield in the South this year is estimated at 9,000,000 barrels. The Harrodsburg Democrat reports the sale of 200 barrels of old corn at $1.50.

Hon. G. A. Lachey says it was $1.75 per barrel that his corn brought, instead of $1.00 as our types got it.

S. M. Owens sold to Mack Hughes of Danville, a black harness gelding for $125 and a bay horse for $112.50.

FOR SALE—I have 83 nice, long yearlings or short two-year old steers for sale. John W. Miller, Lancaster.

W. O. Brock, of Clark county, sold $9,712 worth of tobacco from 75 acres of land, realizing in one season more than the land is worth.

Jonas Well has purchased of Sidney G. Clay, of Bourbon, 90 fat entries, averaging 1,500 pounds, to be delivered Nov. 1st at $6—Cynthiana Democrat.

Stock men generally are pleased with Blee Benge's stock pens at Lancaster and they greatly prefer to pay 10c per head to keep them there than run after them on the street. There were about 700 cattle there yesterday, where all sales were made.

The chestnut crop is a failure this year—so Muldraugh's Hill denizens tell us. There is a heavy beech and hornbeam mast. Nutting parties are frequent, there being plenty of walnuts and some hickory nuts. The wild grape is scarce this year—Lebanon Gazette.

Cal Newman, of Hanover, Penn., bought two ears of young mules, two and three years old, at $50 to $70. Cathartes & Board, of Lexington, bought 20 mules at $50 to $100. Mr. Peters, of Bath county, sold a pair of mare mules at $210.—Mt. Sterling Gazette.

LANCASTER COUNTY.—There were between 600 and 800 cattle on the Lancaster market yesterday but two-thirds of them went home unsold. A few good yearlings sold as high as 4c but 4.10 was the rolling price. Holfers were from one cent to 14 cents lower. Butcher cattle sold at 2 to 3c. The following private sales were made: J. M. Roberts sold a bunch of cows at 2c, some heifers at 3c and a bull at 3c; D. M. Anderson sold to Fox & Lawson 30 young cattle at $22.50; G. A. Siller sold a lot of heifers to Rus Denton at 3.10; Peney & Corder bought 13 heifers at $21; G. A. Swinebold sold 10 steers at 4c and some heifers at 3c. A few mule colts sold at $20 to $40; aged mules $10 to $100. Horses were dull. The crowd was about up to the average.

Miss Minnie Hawkins, who visited Mrs. Wm. Hamilton last summer, was married in Jeffersonville, last week to Frank Baneaut, of Louisville.

Rev. S. H. Jones and Ed Hubbard's meeting at Mt. Moriah continues with large crowds. There have been no additions so far, but the church members have been greatly awakened.

FINER.—Teachers or school board, will be supplied with free copies of the latest county maps of Kentucky and Tennessee, for use in Lincoln county schools, on application to W. B. McRoberts, the druggist and book seller.

LOST at the circus a black cape. Leave at this office and get reward.

CLARENCE COLEMAN

AT LAST BREAKS INTO THE ARMY.

CAMP MEADE, Ky., Oct. 19.—You are doubtless surprised at learning of me being again in the army after so many failures, and will probably want to know how I ever succeeded in getting in. Well it was through sympathy I guess. I had written to the various recruiting officers throughout the country without recognition and made half a dozen futile attempts at various recruiting offices. As a last resort I wrote a personal letter to Adjutant Gen. Corbin stating my inability to enlist on account of a deficiency in chest measure and weight, but when he came to the Philippines and shooting Filipinos, I was just as good as any master man. He acted favorably upon my application and referred it to the Lexington office and from there to the branch office at Somerset and I was ordered to report at Somerset and was told that I would be enlisted if I could pass the physician's examination, which I did. I was mustered in at Somerset, Oct. 15, by Capt. W. T. Turner, of the 2d Infantry, now on recruiting duty, with the exception of Robert Keeney, of Middleburg, who enlisted at the same time, I am among strangers. Left Somerset Monday on the noon train, which arrived at Cincinnati at 6 P. M. I came from Cincinnati to Pittsburgh over the P. C. C. & St. L.

Pittsburg well deserves the appellation "Smoky City." One cannot see the city across the river from Allegheny City. We came over the Pennsylvania R. from Pittsburg to Harrisburg, the capital of the State. From Harrisburg we came on the Pennsylvania down to Camp Meade, which is only eight miles distant and one mile from Middletown, which is connected with Camp Meade by an electric car line. We came through the oil fields of western Pennsylvania and could see hundreds of wells with huge shafts, in every direction for miles and miles.

The scenery along the Conemaugh valley is beautiful indeed, at times, sublime. I saw the cemetery on the side of the hill at Johnstown, where the unknown victim of the great "Johnstown Flood" sleep.

Camp Meade is a model camping ground, situated about half a mile from the Susquehanna river at the spurs of the Allegheny mountains. We are encamped in tents but have straw ticks, plenty of "kiver" and heavy overcoats, so we are doing very well. The weather is fine now—not hot like we left it in Kentucky. Keeuey and myself were assigned to Co. K, of the 4th regiment of volunteers. There are two regiments stationed here, the 4th and 47th, both of which are made up all over the Union. There is strong talk of us going by New York, across the Atlantic, through the Straits of Gibraltar, into the Mediterranean sea, Suez canal, Red sea, Indian Ocean, etc. By this route we would touch Europe, Africa and Asia, and would of course return the Pacific-Honolulu-San Francisco route.

VALID REASONS

Presented by Mr. Bryan For Supporting Goebel.

AN APPEAL TO KENTUCKIANS

Of the Democratic Persuasion to Fight the Common Enemy.

REPLY TO JOHN YOUNG BROWN

Kill the Bears and Then Tackle the Mosquitoes, Says He.

EVILS THREATENING THE REPUBLIC

While Not Denying the Right of Every Man to Vote as He Desires, He Points Out the Danger of Losing the Blue Grass State.

The tour through Kentucky of Democracy's fearless leader, Hon. William J. Bryan, was one of triumph. At every point where he was billeted to speak great crowds turned out to greet him. Our gallant standard bearer, Hon. William Goebel, accompanied the Nebraska orator on his trip and was accorded magnificent ovations. Burning issues of the hour were expounded by Mr. Bryan to sympathetic throngs.

The great orator at all places portrayed the necessity of united and harmonious action on the part of Kentucky Democrats at this time. National issues, he said, imperatively demand that they rally around the standard of William Goebel, thus wresting the state from Republican misrule and insuring sweeping success of the people's cause in 1900.

When the distinguished party reached Louisville 25,000 enthusiastic people were in waiting at the barbecue. Both Colonel Bryan and Hon. William Goebel received flattering ovations and both responded by delivering ringing addresses. Mr. Bryan's speech in full follows:

BRYAN'S ADDRESS.

Mr. Chairman and Ladies and Gentlemen: I am glad that I have an opportunity to address so many of the good people of Kentucky on this occasion. My coming needs no explanation, no apology, I am here because I am still interested in the triumph of those principles set forth in the Chicago platform and reaffirmed in the platform adopted at Louisville. (Applause.)

When I arrived this morning a messenger handed me a letter and told me that it was from Ex-Governor John Young Brown. (Applause and cries of "Read it.") It asks me to answer certain questions. I came here to this state to answer those questions. (Applause.)

It states in the first place—well, it does not state. (Laughter.)

The letter says: "If it be true that a secret written bargain was made prior to the late Louisville Music hall convention between Messrs. Goebel and Stone," and so forth, "If it be true that a secret written bargain was made," and then he sets forth what he understands the written bargain to be, and says: "If it be true that this bargain was executed, then do you state that the action of such substituted delegates could give Goebel the nomination of the Democratic party; was not such a contract fraudulent?" and then he asks whether the chairman of a sovereign body ought to entertain an appeal, and then if such things were done, as he claims, "is not this a menace to free government; and do you endorse the Goebel election law? If so, please explain why you advocate free government for the people of the Philippines and deny it to the people of Kentucky? Have you any idea save that of political ascendancy power?"—that of political expediency to justify submission by American citizens to the outrages above indicated. Very respectfully yours,

JOHN YOUNG BROWN.
(Voices—Pour it into him now.)

Replies to Brown.

Mr. Bryan—Let me say in the first place, that I did not come to Kentucky to investigate the details of a state convention and sit in judgment upon the things done in that convention. I did not come to this state to discuss the details of an election law. I come to this state to say, and I want to say it with emphasis, that if there was in that convention anything done that a Democrat does not think ought to have been done, I want to ask what remedy that Democrat is going to offer to remedy the wrong that he thinks was done. I ask of the Democrat who complains of that convention what that remedy is. Is it to elect a Republican governor and Republican officers in the state of Kentucky? (Cries of no, no.) If that is the remedy proposed, I want the Democrat who applies the remedy to apply it with a full knowledge of the responsibility that he assumes. The man who attempts to correct a Democratic convention by electing a Republican governor assumes responsibility for all that that governor does after he has elected him. (Applause.)

We are in the midst of a great contest—contests in which plutocracy is on the one side and Democracy is on the other side. We had a campaign in 1896, when the Republican party was compelled to raise from the corporations of the nation such a campaign fund as no party ever used before. Aye! more than that, a campaign fund that I think I may safely say was larger than all the campaign funds used by the Republican party from the days of Fremont to the days of Hanna.

We had that campaign. By the use of money and coercion the Republican party won. It has made not an advance, but a retreat even from the position that it occupied in 1896. It is worse today that it was then, and is applying to every question the same vicious principles that it applied to the question before the country in 1896.

We are on the eve of another national campaign—a campaign that will determine whether this is to be a government of the people, by the people and for the people, or a government of monopolies by monopolies and for monopolies. (Applause.) You met in convention at Louisville; you endorsed the Chicago platform. The platform adopted at Louisville contained not only an endorsement of the Chicago platform, but it announced the party's position on the new questions that have arisen since; and that platform, among other things, endorsed the Goebel election law. There was no minority report in that convention. There was no fight on that platform, and when that convention adjourned, and the ticket was nominated, that ticket stood before the country as representative of that platform.

The Bolters' Convention.

Some Democrats met and organized another convention. It was not a convention called in the regular way, nor a convention to which delegates were sent in the regular way. It was a convention formed of those men who were opposed to the other ticket that was nominated.

It can not be called a representative convention. It can not be called a convention representing the Democratic voters of this state; and now the ticket nominated by the bolters' convention is in this campaign with no possible prospect of election, and with but one influence, and that is to aid in the election of the Republican ticket. (Applause.) And the basis upon which they rest their fight is that the convention that met at Louisville did things that relieved the voters from any obligation to support the ticket. When a man tells you that you are justified in helping to elect a Republican governor, you ask him whether if Mr. Taylor had been a candidate against Mr. Goebel in that convention, there would have been any doubt of Mr. Goebel's nomination in that convention. (Applause.)

Because a man was nominated who the bolters do not like, or to whose nomination they object, they offer as a remedy the election of a Republican governor and Republican state officers. I want to say to you, my friends, that in my humble judgment, you have time to settle your grievances after this without jeopardizing every great principle that you love, and for which you have been fighting. (Applause.) You may think what you believe of that convention. You may think what you please as to the relative merits of the candidates before that convention. You may think what you please of the method employed in that convention. Today the question is not between the men who were candidates before that convention. The question is whether you will elect the ticket nominated on that platform or a Republican ticket.

That is the question submitted to the people of Kentucky, and you may think all you please and say all you like against the ticket nominated, and against the platform or against the convention that nominated the ticket; and yet that ticket and that platform stand for Democratic principles and Democratic policies, as against Republican candidates, Republican platforms and Republican principles. (Applause.)

I have never denied the right of a man to bolt. In fact, I have always insisted that a man's vote belongs to him, and to him only. There were bolters in 1896. I had a chance to say things hard against bolters because my nomination came from a convention elected by two-thirds of that convention, and I was nominated by two-thirds, and yet never during the campaign did I say one word in abuse of any man who felt it his duty to vote against me. I said if a man believed that my election would be injurious to the country, then he ought to vote against me.

But, my friends, those who voted against me took the responsibility of helping to elect a Republican president, and became responsible for everything that a Republican president did. (Applause.)

Responsibility For Republicans.

And so I say that if there is a man in this state who believes it is his duty to vote against Mr. Goebel, I have not one word to say in criticism of his act; but I want him to know that when he does it he assumes responsibility for the election of a Republican governor. Whether he votes directly for a Republican governor, or votes for Mr. Brown, and thus enables a Republican governor to be elected, no matter what he does, if he does not support the Goebel ticket, he becomes responsible for the actions of the Republican administration.

Do you want to know why I am here? I am here because I love the principles written in the Chicago platform. I believe it to be a new declaration of American independence, and I believe in those additional planks written in the Louisville platform against the trusts and against imperialism. I believe that the safety of this nation is imperiled by Republican policies, and because I believe that this nation's safety, its welfare and its institutions are in danger, therefore I come from my Nebraska home to warn you that if you help to elect a Republican governor, you put it in his power to defend those principles at a critical moment. (Applause.)

We have an election in 1900. We can not tell how large the majority will be in this state, but if you have a Republican counting machine that has no conscience, it doesn't matter much how large the majority may be. We can not get it, no matter how large our majority. I believe that in 1896 there were votes counted for the Republican ticket in this state that were never cast, and that I carried the state of Kentucky. (Applause.)

In 1900 there will be another election, and if you elect a Republican governor, then that Republican governor will be the man who must sign the certificates of election, which shall be the authority of the electors of this state, and if you elect a Republican governor, and that Republican governor stands in with the plutocratic authorities of the nation, that are now behind the Republican party, you will become responsible for the action of that Republican governor at a critical time, when the fate of a nation hangs in the balance. (Great applause.)

The constitution says that the governor shall have the power to fill vacancies that may occur in the senate when there is no legislature in session.

The governor whom you elect this fall will occupy the chair for four years; and during those four years he will have the right to fill vacancies in the senate. If you elect a Republican governor he will stand ready to fill a vacancy with a Republican. If you elect Goebel he will be sure to fill the vacancy with a Democrat who stands on the Chicago platform. (Applause.)

Value of One Vote.

Sometimes the vote in the senate is close. Sometimes so close that a single vote will determine the passage of a bill. It is only a few months ago that the Hagen resolution came before the senate. No more important resolution has been before that body in recent years; and when the roll was called the vote on that resolution was a tie, and the Republican vice president cast the deciding vote, and voted no.

That resolution promised to the Philippines independence and self-government as soon as a stable government could be established, and because Kentucky was represented in the United States senate by a Republican, who was elected when Jo Blackburn ought to have been elected—(applause)—that resolution was defeated when it would have been carried if Jo Blackburn had been there.

I can not tell, you can not tell, no human being can tell what questions may arise, nor can we tell how close the vote may be on questions during the next few years. We hope to win a victory in 1900. We hope to take the executive office out of the hands of the Republicans and put it in the hands of a Democrat; but, my friends, what good will it do us to elect a Democratic president, and then let his hands be a tie, and the Republican vice president cast the deciding vote, and voted no.

Blackburn's Vote Needed.

The Republican party is attempting to retire the greenbacks. The Democratic party is opposed to the retirement of the greenbacks, and I want Jo Blackburn in the senate to vote against the retirement of the greenbacks and a national bank currency, because the national banks are seeking to secure from the federal government the right to issue and control the paper money of the country; and I want Jo Blackburn there to stand for six years as the representative of the toiling and producing masses against the policy of the money-changers on this money question.

The question of the nation's standard money will be before the senate.

Mr. McKinley sent a commission to Europe to get rid of the gold standard by international bimetallism, and the laboring men of England wanted England to help us, and the farmers of England wanted England to help us, but the bankers of London did not want England to help us, and the bankers controlled the English government, and the English government controlled the policy of Europe, and Europe, through the Republican party, is controlling the policy of the United States, and I want Jo Blackburn in the United States senate to vote for an American financial policy for the American people. (Loud applause.)

The trust question will come before that senate. The trusts have grown up with greater rapidity during the last two years than ever before, and they seek now to gather all the great industries into the hands of a few men, where a few men can fix the price of all that you buy, fix the price of all the raw material that you sell, and fix the wages paid to those who convert raw material into finished products. You can not annihilate the trusts until the senate is on our side, and I want Jo Blackburn in the United States senate to vote on every occasion for the annihilation of the trusts and the monopoly in private hands.

We have another question. The Republican party desires an increase in the standing army. Mr. McKinley asked congress to raise the army from 25,000 men to 100,000, and the Republican house of representatives, prompt to do the bidding of a Republican president, voted for a bill that raised the army to 100,000, and that question is still before the country, because that bill was only defeated by a combination of Democrats, Populists and silver Republicans in the senate.

Want a Larger Army.

The president and the Republican party still want a large standing army. I believe that a large standing army would be not only a burden to the American people, but would be a menace to liberty itself. If you want to know the menace of a large army, go to France and witness the proceedings of the Dreyfus trial. There was an innocent man convicted because the them that I would rather every one of them would vote against me and stand by the principles of Democracy, and stand by me and vote to elect a Republican governor. (Great and continued applause.) I have a higher ambition than being president of the United States. (Applause.)

I have an ambition that can be shared by every citizen. If I know my own heart, my highest ambition is to do all within my power to make this government so good that to be an American citizen will be greater than to be a king (loud applause), and I want to show you my interest in Democratic principles by coming to Kentucky, and warning you of the risks you take when you array yourselves against a ticket that stands upon a platform that endorses the Chicago platform ideas. Let me repeat, I want to burn the words into your memories, that while you have a right to bolt, yet when you bolt you assume responsibility for all that your bolting does.

What has your bolted done in this state? It has divided Democracy into warring factions, and the Brown Democrats have spent its time denouncing the Goebel Democracy, instead of denouncing the Republican party. (Great applause.)

My friends, there will be time enough when this election is over to adjust the equities between Democrats. Now we are trying to remedy the injustice that Republicanism is forcing upon the United States. (Applause.) This bolt in this state, this division of Democracy into warring factions, is the only hope of the Republican party in this state. The Republicans have no hope of winning over a united Democracy, but if they can divide Democracy, then they may hope for the triumph of a minority over a defeated majority.

The only hope that they have of electing a Republican senator in this state is to divide Democracy into warring factions, and I want you to understand that if your bolting jeopardizes the election of Joseph C. S. Blackburn you become responsible for six years of Republicanism in the senate of the United States. (Applause.)

I believe in an income tax. I believe it is a just tax. I believe the present system by which we collect all the taxes to support the federal government, or practically all, in time of peace from tax upon consumption—I say I believe the system is unjust and inequitable, because it makes the poor pay more than their share and the rich pay less, and I want Jo Blackburn in the senate to vote for an amendment to the constitution that will specifically authorize an income tax, so that neither one judge nor nine judges can build a legal bulwark around the fortunes of the great. (Loud applause.)

I believe in a just tax.

Sometimes the vote in the senate is close. Sometimes so close that a single vote will determine the passage of a bill. It is only a few months ago that the Hagen resolution came before the senate. No more important resolution has been before that body in recent years; and when the roll was called the vote on that resolution was a tie, and the Republican vice president cast the deciding vote, and voted no.

That resolution promised to the Philippines independence and self-government as soon as a stable government could be established, and because Kentucky was represented in the United States senate by a Republican, who was elected when Jo Blackburn ought to have been elected—(applause)—that resolution was defeated when it would have been carried if Jo Blackburn had been there.

I can not tell, you can not tell, no human being can tell what questions may arise, nor can we tell how close the vote may be on questions during the next few years. We hope to win a victory in 1900. We hope to take the executive office out of the hands of the Republicans and put it in the hands of a Democrat; but, my friends, what good will it do us to elect a Democratic president, and then let his hands be a tie, and the Republican vice president cast the deciding vote, and voted no.

Blackburn's Vote Needed.

The Republican party is attempting to retire the greenbacks. The Democratic party is opposed to the retirement of the greenbacks, and I want Jo Blackburn in the senate to vote against the retirement of the greenbacks and a national bank currency, because the national banks are seeking to secure from the federal government the right to issue and control the paper money of the country; and I want Jo Blackburn there to stand for six years as the representative of the toiling and producing masses against the policy of the money-changers on this money question.

The question of the nation's standard money will be before the senate.

Mr. McKinley sent a commission to Europe to get rid of the gold standard by international bimetallism, and the laboring men of England wanted England to help us, and the farmers of England wanted England to help us, but the bankers of London did not want England to help us, and the bankers controlled the English government, and the English government controlled the policy of Europe, and Europe, through the Republican party, is controlling the policy of the United States, and I want Jo Blackburn in the United States senate to vote for an American financial policy for the American people. (Loud applause.)

The trust question will come before that senate. The trusts have grown up with greater rapidity during the last two years than ever before, and they seek now to gather all the great industries into the hands of a few men, where a few men can fix the price of all that you buy, fix the price of all the raw material that you sell, and fix the wages paid to those who convert raw material into finished products. You can not annihilate the trusts until the senate is on our side, and I want Jo Blackburn in the United States senate to vote on every occasion for the annihilation of the trusts and the monopoly in private hands.

We have another question. The Republican party desires an increase in the standing army. Mr. McKinley asked congress to raise the army from 25,000 men to 100,000, and the Republican house of representatives, prompt to do the bidding of a Republican president, voted for a bill that raised the army to 100,000, and that question is still before the country, because that bill was only defeated by a combination of Democrats, Populists and silver Republicans in the senate.

Want a Larger Army.

The president and the Republican party still want a large standing army. I believe that a large standing army would be not only a burden to the American people, but would be a menace to liberty itself. If you want to know the menace of a large army, go to France and witness the proceedings of the Dreyfus trial. There was an innocent man convicted because the TRIAL.—A. G. Coffey and son, Albert, will be tried this morning for attempting to shoot and otherwise intimidate W. W. Pitman and wife. The latter is a tenant on Coffey's farm and they had some trouble over their tobacco crop and have not been on good terms since. The other day, Coffey and his son went to Pitman's and after throwing his things out of the crib put some of their farming implements in it and nailed it up. Pitman protested and they put guns and pistols against his breast and cursing him said they would kill him. They also, according to Mr. Pitman, made Mrs. Pitman get down on her knees and beg for mercy.

LANCASTER.—A court-house chuck full of people heard Gov. G. G. Gilchrist's splendid speech at Lancaster yesterday and that it did the cause of democracy good there is no doubt. He was introduced in a neat speech by that good democrat, Senator Gen. T. Farris.

T. B. Demaree followed him with a talk for the prohibition ticket, but hardly a tenth of the crowd remained to hear him. Democrats were in high feather generally and are confident of carrying Garrard both for Ray and Goebel. The nomination of Mr. Ray for representative gives general satisfaction. Marriage license was issued yesterday to Dr. J. E. Clance and Miss Helen Thompson, of Ocala, Fla. Miss Thompson is a sister of Mrs. Elder C. E. Powell, at whose home the marriage was to have occurred this morning. The Mason Hotel was taken down at $3,000. Mr. J. B. Carter, of Cartersville, was the bidder.

TWO colored people had their sins washed away in the pond this side of the water works Sunday afternoon in the presence of a large crowd. They professed religion under Rev. G. W. Bolling, who baptized them.

THE Southern railroad engineers, under Capt. Joel Mabel, who have been encamped at the water works here, struck their tents yesterday and moved to Halls Gap. Capt. Mabel tells us that the route via Danville here is a very practical one and can be built with no extraordinary outlay. Capt. W. H. Respass, who is in charge of the party that ran the line via Lancaster, was here Sunday from his camp at Mt. Vernon, expecting to meet Maj. Wells, the chief engineer. He says that the Lancaster line is an expensive one, requiring besides others, a high bridge 750 feet long. We dislike to have to keep our Lancaster friends out of the road, but if we do, they must charge it to our shortness and cheapness of route and general advantages.

HAVE your coal hauled while it is dry. J. H. Baughman & Co.

JUDGE R. J. BRECKINRIDGE will speak at Millidgeville Thursday evening, 20th, at 7 o'clock and at Crab Orchard on Saturday, 22d, at 2 o'clock. Let every democrat, every republican and every wavering man hear these speeches and the democratic ticket will have free eunrs and be glorified.

SAMPLE BALLOT.—On our third page will be found a sample of the ballot to be voted two weeks from today. It contains the names of each party and its candidates with their separate dectives. The first column is ours. Let it be yours by marking in the square under the rooster. That's all that is necessary. When you have done that your vote will be counted for the full ticket.

ATTEMPTED RAPE.—Craig Baugh was tried before Judge Bailey yesterday for attempted rape on Mrs. Win. Clymer, of the Highland section, and held $200 bond to the circuit court, which he gave. Mrs. Clymer claims that Baugh went in her house and made violent demonstrations, catching hold of her and attempting to pull her out of the house. She expostulated with him and begged him to go away, which he finally did. Baugh swore that he made any such demonstrations that he certainly intended to use no force. C. C. Williams, Esq., of Mt. Vernon, who represented Baugh, tried to prove that Mrs. Clymer had a bad character a number of years ago, but the judge would not permit him to present the evidence. Baugh married a sister of Mr. Clymer, the husband of the woman who brings the accusation, and has several children. Mrs. Clymer is a good looking woman of 35 and while she may have been deeply insulted, the neighbors do not think it a wanton attempt at assault.

MCKINNEY.

Another boarder of the male persuasion arrived at Sam Clarkston's last week, but as he is a toothless one, his "grub" will not be expensive for a while yet.

The famous cow mentioned in the I. J. a few days ago, "together with" her ex-Brookhead owner, are quietly domiciled in McKinney. If her owner should conclude to take her to the Philippine Islands to furnish cream for Gen. Lawton's coffee, as he moves from town to town, we hardly think she would object to the trip.

The wife and baby of Green Anderson, colored, were buried in one grave here a few days ago. Only the month back a grown son was "laid to rest" in the same "silent city of the dead." It was reported here last Tuesday morning that John S. Lee had died of wounds received from a fall from a horse, but it was not true.

Mr. and Mrs. George Griffiths are away for a few days. Mrs. C. L. Crow is visiting her parents in Somerset. F. M. Ware and daughter, Miss Genia, Ed Tanner and E. D. Kennedy were in Louisville last week. Miss Hettie Moore is still with friends and relatives in Russell county. Mrs. M. P. Morgan and children are visiting in Crab Orchard.

Mrs. James Camden, of Mt. Salem, died of consumption at her father, Mr. George Estes', on the 15th. Mrs. Camden had been in poor health for some time past, but only a few days before her death, had gone to visit her parents, where she got down and was never able to return home. She was buried near the home of her girlhood, on Green River, on Monday, and the sorrowing friends in attendance were many. This is the second good wife that Mr. Camden has buried and much sympathy is felt for him in his bereavement. No children blessed the last marriage.

Miss Dove Cannon is down with typhoid fever and a favorable turn in her case was reported Sunday morning. Dr. Grider and O'Bannon performed a successful surgical operation here a few days ago. About five years ago while at play a little girl of Geo. Anderson, colored, was hit in the eye with a small piece of slate rock; the wound never healed, but caused intense pain almost constantly for years. The eye ball had enlarged and protruded beyond the "socket," presenting an unsightly appearance. This the doctors corrected by removing the eye, leaving a comparatively paleless wound, which is healing rapidly.

George R. Griffiths, the champion lumber man in these parts, has been busy shipping from this section for the last several days. His lumber yard still has enough on it to build a small village and its bulk is to be largely increased this week. J. D. Yocom is building a neat dwelling on his place South of town. Jimmy Alford and "Jack" Owens have each erected a dwelling on their lots adjacent the Green River pike beyond the town limits. The Presbyterian church is being treated to a new roof, Cud & Davidson doing the work. Material has been purchased for similar repairs on the Baptist church, but it has not yet been delivered on the premises. D. S. Hilde has recently added some improvements to his dwelling on Main street. Reuben Williams has, also, added to the conveniences of his already pretty home. Kennedy & McKinney have built a commodious coal house and will handle a grade of coal that will please their customers both in price and quality. This we say without their authority.

Maj. Guy Howard, a son of O. O. Howard, was among the Americans killed in the fighting in the Philippines on Saturday.

army commanded it, and the president had to pardon him because the conviction outraged the sense of justice throughout the civilized world.

And now, when we have pressing upon us this demand for a large standing army, this measure that will not only burden the taxpayers, but menace American liberty, we are asked to stop and settle the details of a state convention before we relieve this nation from this threatened evil.

The Republican party has gone a step further. It is endorsing a colonial policy. It is endorsing the doctrine of empire. Mr. McKinley, in his speech at Minneapolis the other day, said that he had no doubt that we would permanently hold the Philippine Islands; he had no doubt that they would prove a great blessing to us, and then he used the sentence to which I want to call your attention: "That congress will provide for them a government which will bring them blessings, which will promote their material interests as well as advance their people in the path of civilization and intelligence, I confidently believe." Just change that sentence a little. In the place of "congress" put "parliament," and after "them" put "the colonists," and you have a sentence that would have expressed the confident belief of King George when we rebelled from the mother country. (Applause.) "King George confidently believed that parliament would provide for the colonists a government which would bring them blessings, and which would promote their material interests as well as advance their people in the path of civilization and intelligence." Change the sentence in another way, and in the place of "congress" put "cortes," and after "them" put "Cubana," and you will have a sentence that would fit the Spanish monarch when this nation interfered to bring liberty to the people of Cuba. There is a sentence that shows a clear departure from the principles written in the Declaration of Independence; and if the people of this state this fall vote the Republican ticket, or so vote as to aid in the election of a Republican ticket, the election this fall will be counted as an endorsement of the principles now actuating the Republican party. It will be a declaration of approval of the president's imperial policy.

I was asked in this letter how I could favor a convention resting upon force and yet oppose imperialism in the Philippine Islands. Well, my friends, I can shoot bear before I commence to fight mosquitoes. (Laughter and applause.) If my home is attacked by two kinds of wild beasts, I will try first to kill the most dangerous one, and when I have him out of the way I will take care of the less dangerous one. (Applause.)

Do you tell me that that Louisville convention received its authority from force? You are here in this state and can remedy that hereafter; but when this nation announces before the world that it has abandoned the principles of a republic and indorses the principles of empire, you will find it more difficult to retrieve your steps.

And then I want to ask how any man who favors an imperial policy in the Philippine Islands can find any fault with the application of force anywhere at home or abroad. (Laughter and applause.)

Danger of Imperialism.
I believe that the Republican policy of imperialism is a danger and a menace to our principles of government, and I believe that now is the time when the American people must speak out against the doctrine of imperialism. Do you thirst for the glories of an empire? I point you to the history of this republic for the last 100 years, and tell you I would not trade the glory of this republic for the glory of all the empires that have risen and fallen since time began. (Applause.)

If you defend imperialism on the ground that it will pay, I tell you, you can not settle great questions upon that basis; but if you could, you could not prove that materialism would be beneficial to the mass of the people. You can not afford to drag the question of the nation's policy down to the low basis of dollars and cents; neither can you afford to establish the doctrine that this nation is going to go forth and civilize with the sword and proselyte with the sword. (Applause.)

Do not lay this war of conquest upon the ground that it will pay. I tell you, you can not settle great questions upon that basis; but if you could, you could not prove that materialism would be beneficial to the mass of the people. You can not afford to drag the question of the nation's policy down to the low basis of dollars and cents; neither can you afford to establish the doctrine that this nation is going to go forth and civilize with the sword and proselyte with the sword. (Applause.)

A Voice—Mark Hanna.

Mr. Bryan—Who has authority to tell us that God has commanded us to engage in a war of conquest? I believe in God. I believe in His influence over the thoughts and purposes of men, but you can not undertake to blame God for every purpose that every man has, or for every purpose that every party may have. If I feel in my heart an impulse to take money out of my own pocket and give it to some one in distress, I will trace the impulse to God; but if I feel in my heart an impulse to put my hand into somebody else's pocket, and get his money for my use, I will not lay it on the Almighty. (Laughter and applause.) There is another old fellow that I will lay it on. (Laughter and applause.)

I am afraid the Republican party has adopted the philosophy of the colored man of whom I once read who was very fond of chicken, but not always careful about the observance of the commandments. He said that when he prayed the Lord to send a chicken to him the Lord seldom did it; but when he prayed the Lord to send him after a chicken, he nearly always got it. (Laughter and applause.) I believe the Republican party has prayed the Lord to send it after a chicken (laughter), and it is trying now to cover up greed and avarice with the hypocrisy that it is being done for the welfare of the people of the Philippine Islands.

Christ Before Pilate.

I read a sermon not long ago that impressed me much. I would that every Christian might read that sermon. The minister, who was Mr. Brown of Rochester, N. Y., took this text, or passage, which describes the scene where Christ was before Pilate, said to Christ: "Knowest thou not that I have power to release thee or to put thee to death?" and taking that text the minister contrasted force and love. Pilate represented force. Behind him was the Roman government, the Roman legions and Caesar himself. Before him, helpless and alone, stood Christ preaching the gospel of love, and force triumphed.

They nailed him to a tree, and those who believed in brute force stood around, mocked and jeered, and said: "He is dead," and then the minister pointed out how from that day the power of Caesar waned and the power of Christ increased, and in a few centuries the Roman government was gone and its legions forgotten, while the followers of Christ increased with each passing year, until millions now take His name with reverence upon their lips, and then the minister said that in this nation force and love must meet face to face, and that we are to decide whether this nation would stand before the world as a Pilate, representing brute force, or as a Christ, representing the uplifting power of love.

I believe he spoke the truth. I believe that this nation today must decide whether it is going to be a great moral force, rising and drawing all men unto it, or whether it is going to sink to the low level of the empires of the Old World.

Let me give you an illustration of it. While the nation held aloft this doctrine of self-government and the principles of a republic, it dared to express its sympathy with struggling mankind everywhere. When Greece was struggling for her liberty, Daniel Webster thundered out the sympathy of the American people; and when the Cubans were fighting to be free, congress heard their cries and promised succor and relief; but today, in far-away Africa, in the Dutch republic, the Boers are offering up their life's blood in defense of their right to govern themselves, and this great nation stands with its hands tied and its mouth gagged, and dare not offer one word of sympathy. (Applause.)

Dare Not Sympathize With Boers.
What a spectacle, the greatest republie in all times afraid to say a word, and why? Because, if we expressed our sympathy with the Boers, England would enable back: "What is the matter with the Filipinos?" (Laughter and applause.)

I believe in Jefferson's doctrine of friendly relations with all nations and entangling alliances with none. I am all the time afraid to say a word, and why? Because, if we expressed our sympathy with the Boers, England would enable back: "What is the matter with the Filipinos?" (Laughter and applause.)
